The McCook Tribune.

Freeze to Your Nebraska Farm.

More or less gentle agricultural reader, if you have a farm in Nebraska, stay on it. Freeze to it like death, to a colored gentleman of the male persuasion. There isn't a better country from Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand, and if you hold a chunk of land in it you are very fortunate, even though you have to eat corn pone and salt pork every day for lack of gold to buy sponge cake and breaded veal. There are a good many farmers in this world of ours who would like mighty well to have some salt pork and corn bread. Some of them are living on the pure air and freedom to a large extent. Now and then you will encounter a husbandman of this fair state of ours who is greasing his pretty green wagon and harnessing his pale sorrel horse preparatory to a trip to Oklahoma. He will wisely look at his neighbors and tell them what a smooth country this Oklahoma is; how a poor man can go there and dig a hole in the ground and be rich before morning; how he can plant dried apples and raise an orchard. And if the neighbors are credulous they may follow him. But this wise man will go there and measure off a chunk of land, and the chances are that some intellectual settler will come over with a shot gun and establish a lead mine in his person. Practical jokes of that kind are considered necessary to create friendly feeling in a new country. If the wise man escapes dying with his boots on he will necessarily be kept busy beguiling the wolf away from his door until he can raise a good crop which can't be done inside of two years even if providence be smiling all the time. And the chances are that the wise man will eventually come hoofing it home to Nebraska knee deep in the dust of a country road, and breathing harsh invectives against himself at every step. That will be merely the repetition of a story as old as the western country. As between a sure thing and a doubtful it is always best to choose the former. The industrious man can always do well in Nebraska, but if he chases strange and refractory gods he is liable to be seen in the gray dawn of a wintry day carrying the banner and looking for a turnip to keep soul and body together. At the work of gathering moss the rolling stone is not a success.—Topics.

ALL FOR NEBRASKA.

Some business men seem to be incapable of appreciating the fact that every good local paper does a town ten times as much good as it is paid for. Men having large interests in a town and deeply concerned as to its progress, often try to see how little they can do for their own local paper. The papers of Nebraska are to-day doing more for the good of their state than they receive credit for. Day after day and week after week they are telling of its advantages and its progress. The facts which they give are widely published in other papers, and thus the work is carried far beyond their immediate circle of readers. If the merchants and business men of the community could know as publishers do, how constantly the columns of their local papers are advertising them abroad and advertising to great advantage—so far from taking credit to themselves in the patronage which they extend, as if they were making a donation, they would double and triple their support, assuming that in all cases they were getting a handsome equivalent for the money expended.

Headache Relief.

The editor of a medical journal claims that he has used a certain treatment for headache for a year or so with remarkable success. It is a solution of the bisulphide of carbon, two or three drams of which are poured on a sponge placed in a wide mouthed, glass stoppered bottle. When occasion for its use occurs the mouth of the bottle is to be applied to the temple, or as near as possible to the seat of pain, so closely that none of the volatile vapor can escape, and retained there four or five minutes or longer. It may be repeated several times during the day, and it generally acts like magic, giving immediate relief. Nervous headaches are the ones to which it is especially adapted. Neuralgic, periodic and hysterical headaches, and even many kinds of dyspeptic headaches are almost invariably relieved by it. But it must be understood that the remedy is for the symptoms and not the cause, the theory being that vapor being absorbed through the skin produces a sedative effect upon the superficial nerves of the parts to which it is applied.

BILL BROWN'S BUNCOMBE.

It appears that one, "Hon. W. W. Brown," of Culbertson, is a candidate for register of McCook land office, which supposition is corroborated by the following printed letters which have just recently fallen under our eyes:

Office of
W. W. BROWN, Culbertson, Neb., April 19, 1889.

MY DEAR SIR: Will you kindly sign and return to me the enclosed letter to our delegation at Washington. Your prompt attention will greatly oblige.

Very respectfully yours,
W. W. BROWN.

TO HON. CHAS. F. MANDERSON, U. S. S. A. S. PADDOCK, U. S. S. JAMES LAIRD, M. C. G. W. E. DUNSTON, M. C. AND W. J. CONNELL, M. C.

DEAR SIR: I am a resident in county, Nebraska, under jurisdiction of the U. S. Land Office at McCook. I cordially recommend the Hon. W. W. Brown, of Culbertson, Neb., for the position of Register of the above office. Mr. Brown has been a resident of this section for a long time and is well and favorably known. He is a strong Republican, a business man of ability, and I am convinced that his appointment would please a large majority of the residents of the Land District.

Very respectfully yours,
W. W. BROWN.

Chickens as is Chickens.

Mr. Caleb Clothier hands us a clipping from a Jersey paper, which goes to prove that they do raise something besides Jersey lightning crabs and adult mosquitoes in that diminutive commonwealth: "J. W. and T. Black, of Springfield township, killed on Wednesday, 140 capons, averaging 11½ lbs. Nine averaged 15 pounds apiece, the heaviest pair weighing 31½ pounds. The whole weight was 1,660 pounds. They were shipped to dealers in New York."

Subscribers Pay Up.

It is not the habit of the publisher to do persistent dunning; but there is a tide in the affairs of men which taken at the flood leads on to glory; so there is a time in the life of the publisher when a little cash seems to be necessary, in addition to glory. An urgent invitation is extended our delinquent subscribers to call at once and settle up. In other words we must have some money.
